God's Word Today

Today, we are once again given an account of the call of the disciples. These Gospel stories are positioned in the early part of ordinary time for good reason. We know that the Lenten journey is just around the corner. That journey will take us once again to Jerusalem and to the cross and resurrection of Christ. One of the characteristics of discipleship is that one does not become a disciple solely on one's own. There is always a call, an invitation to follow the way of discipleship. When today's Gospel is proclaimed, try to put yourself in the place of those early disciples who were casting their nets. They were simply doing their daily tasks. In the middle of those tasks, the Lord calls them. Perhaps that is precisely where the Lord calls each of us—in the midst of our daily tasks. As we prepare to listen to God's word, let us open our hearts to listen to the invitation issued to each of us to follow in the footsteps of Christ.

La Palabra De Dios Hoy

Hoy se nos relata una vez más cómo fue el llamado de los discípulos. Estas historias del Evangelio están colocadas en los primeros días de la Pascua. Sabemos que el trayecto espiritual está al doblar de la esquina. Esa travesía nos llevará una vez más a Jerusalén, a la cruz y a la resurrección de Cristo. Una de las características del discipulado es que nadie se convierte en discípulo por sí mismo. Siempre hay un llamado, una invitación a seguir el camino del discipulado. Cuando se proclama el Evangelio de hoy, trata de ponerte en el lugar de los primeros discípulos cuando estaban echando sus redes. Ellos estaban simplemente desempeñando su quehacer diario. En medio de esos quehaceres el Señor los llama. Tal vez es ahí precisamente donde nos llama el Señor a cada uno de nosotros, en medio de nuestros quehaceres diarios. Al prepararnos a escuchar la palabra de Dios abramos nuestro corazón para escuchar la invitación que se nos ha extendido a cada uno de nosotros para seguir los pasos de Cristo.
